Dear Governor Cooper,

I am writing to urge you to protect our state from the dangers of the Atlantic Coast Pipeline. There are many reasons this pipeline should not be built, but perhaps most importantly is the negative effect it will have on our state's waters. Even the best constructed pipelines regularly leak, and the Atlantic Coast pipeline would inevitably pollute many of the hundreds of streams it would cross. Maintaining high water quality of course improves the quality of life for millions of residents of the state while making our state more attractive to businesses like Amazon. It also is vitally important for our recreational and commercial fisheries as well as game and non-game wildlife, which are some of the more valuable assets of the eastern part of our state.

You have the power to compel the Department of Environmental Quality to hold public hearings on the new information submitted recently, and I urge you to hold these hearings. The public should have every chance to comment on this project as it would have such a large impact on the entire eastern part of the state. Please continue your hard work for the people of North Carolina and compel the DEQ to hold public hearings.

Thank you,
Joshua Lobe
